Building out communities served is now more than just a link on your “Buy” tab.

It’s Sooo... much more.

With this update you now have a new Communities tab designed to highlight your market and give your clients a visual representation of your service area.

We have put all the areas that you have highlighted to the top of the page and paired them with a map of your town.

Each community you build, builds a custom page for your site that clients and Google can find and rate. Your pages have an easy way to add photos, have customizable SEO titles and descriptions and even pull in Market Insider stats automatically when you connect them to a zip code.

So, get crackin’

market leader.

Start taking all that traffic from your external blog and direct it to your new Market Leader blog page.

Use that Google juice to improve your website's rankings and generate more leads.

Don't delay.

Other Updates You will Like:

Consumer Site:

- We have new source tracking codes. Uncover which pages are performing best.
 - *for a source to be reported accurately, the ref tag (`?ts=<SourceTypeCode>`) must be used at the end of the destination URL.

blg	Blog Platform	Personal Marketing

- We heard that you didn't like the Listing Alert Campaign automatically sending emails to your clients about signing up for an alert without you knowing. So, we took it out.
- The Seller's Market report is pulling those active listings you selected into the email again. Sorry about that one. But now, you can send a more complete home evaluation to your seller's right from your system.
